

ARIZONA STATE UNIVERSITY, Tempe, AZ (Job 11022) The School of Historical, Philosophical and Religious Studies (SHPRS) and the School of Sustainability (SOS) invite applications for a full-time, tenure track Assistant Professor in environmental humanities with experience in, or a commitment to, sustainability and public engagement. Anticipated start date is August 16, 2015. The position will be a joint appointment in SHPRS and SOS, with the tenure home in SHPRS.

The successful candidate will supervise undergraduate and graduate students, engage in research and public outreach, provide service to the university and community, and build linkages between public history, digital humanities, and sustainability. We seek someone who can teach and train students in careers outside academia and build partnerships between the university and the wider community in the Southwest and globally. Teaching responsibilities may include courses in public history and communicating sustainability to the public; and may occur in a variety of settings including in-person, hybrid, and/or online.

Required qualifications: Ph.D. or equivalent by the time of appointment and a demonstrated record of interdisciplinary research, teaching, and public engagement in environmental humanities and sustainability, and a record of scholarship that applies to real world problems and engages with multiple publics.

Desired qualifications: Evidence of successful grant-writing to support research or public programs, scholarly publications relevant to the position, and experience in using innovative digital technologies for research, teaching, and public communication. Preference will be given to candidates with degrees in history, religious studies, or philosophy, but degrees in other relevant disciplines such as environmental studies, geography, science and technology studies, sociology, or communications are welcome.

To apply, applicants must submit: 1) a detailed letter of application addressing required and desired qualifications, 2) a curriculum vita, and 3) contact information for three professional references (including nature of their relationship to the applicant). Application materials should be sent in a single PDF file to shprsjobs@asu.edu. Inquiries about the position—unrelated to application status—can be addressed to the search committee chair: Paul Hirt at paul.hirt@asu.edu

Application deadline is December 29, 2014, 5:00 PM Mountain Standard Time; if not filled, applications will be reviewed every week thereafter until search is closed. A background check is required for employment.

The School of Historical, Philosophical and Religious Studies (SHPRS) an academic unit of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. It is the largest humanities-based trans-disciplinary research and teaching school at ASU (see <http://shprs.clas.asu.edu/>)

The School of Sustainability is the first of its kind: A comprehensive degree-granting program with a transdisciplinary focus on finding real-world solutions to environmental, economic, and social sustainability challenges (see <http://schoolofsustainability.asu.edu>).

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law.

<https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html>
<https://www.asu.edu/titleIX/>